To become totally human

To become ourselves

Simply and plainly defined, a leader is a person who has followers. She deserves to have followers. She has earned recognition. Authority alone is no longer enough to command respect.

As Dean of Girls, Mrs. Creager has won the affection and admiration of all who have been associated with her. Filled with an abundance of warmth and humor, she has been a guiding influence to many young people during her six year affiliation with Memorial.

Mrs. Creager does not hold people down, she lifts them up. She reaches out her hand to help students scale the peaks. She has faith in people. She believes in them, trusts them, and thus draws out the best in them. Taps VIII is dedicated to a person who exemplifies the qualities and ideals of an educator, a counselor, and a friend - Mrs. Margie Creager.

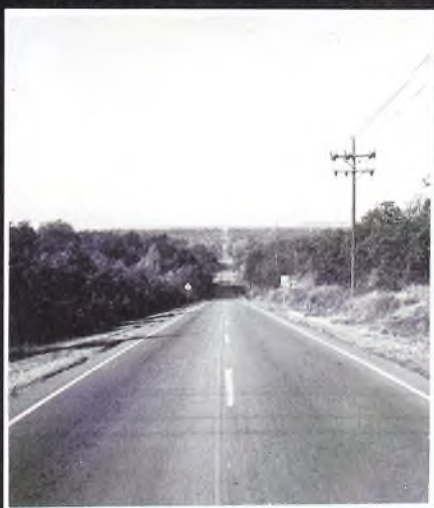

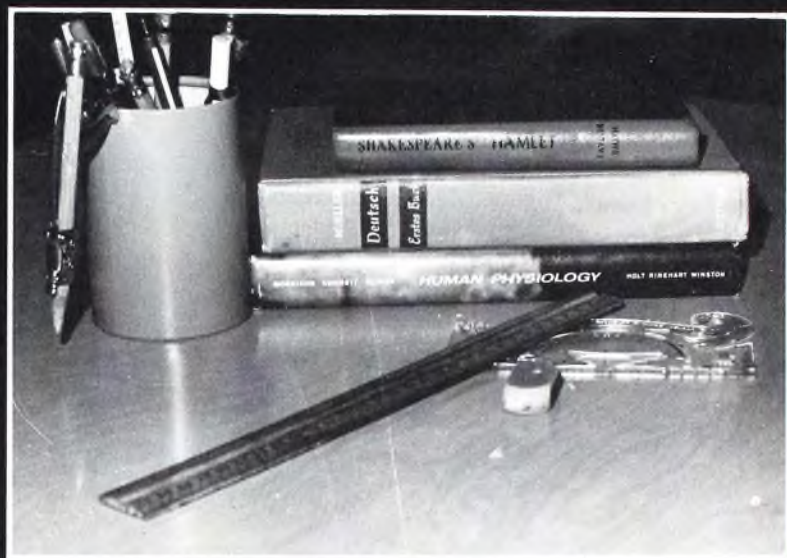

Dedication

Staff Dedicates Taps VIII to Mrs. Creager

Cast: Administration, Faculty, Students . . .

For the first time in twenty-seven years, the School Board operated under a new superintendent. Dr. Gordon Cawelti began his career as Tulsa's school superintendent following the retirement of Dr. Charles C. Mason.

In their efforts to improve public relations, the board held monthly meetings which were open to the public. Members were responsible for selecting instructors and revising curriculum. Although the Tulsa School Board received both acclaim and criticism, it reflected the community's concern for the educational needs of today's youth.

MRS. RICHARD WARNER

MR. KENNETH J. BAYS

Completing his fourth year as principal, Mr. Bays was again involved in a demanding but rewarding job. Often visiting classrooms, he observed numerous class activities and became better acquainted with teachers and their students. To increase understanding between students and the administration was one of his goals. His enthusiasm for Memorial students was displayed at the numerous Charger activities he attended.

Mr. Bays came to Tulsa as a football and track coach at Webster. He has also been on the administrative staffs of Madison, Monroe, Central, Rogers, and McLain. Among his other positions he holds the rank of Lt. Colonel in the Air National Guard.

Mr. Bays Concludes Fourth Year at Memorial

Mr. Bays visits with students in the hall.

Mr. Bays enjoys an early breakfast on Teacher Appreciation Day.

Counseling Staff Expands to Meet Needs

JERREL BELLER - Counselor
MARY ELLEN BRIDGES - Counselor
CHARLES CAGLE - Assistant Principal
JUANITA CAMP - Counselor

At the Tournament of Champions, Mr. Cagle keeps the official records of the games.

Mrs. Stanberry and Mrs. Cox review student transcripts.

During an interview Mr. Schuler discusses the parking lot problem.

Mrs. Creager takes time out from her busy schedule to talk with Nancy Randall.

The counselors at Memorial were always willing to listen to students and parents and to advise them concerning educational plans. They discussed class schedules, graduation requirements, college choices, and future careers with many individuals. Aside from assisting with plans for the future, the counselors were also concerned with discipline and reconciliation. Misunderstandings among pupils, parents, and teachers were discussed in confidential conferences. The continued efforts of the staff members played a vital role in the operation of the school.

WANDA COX - Counselor
 MARGIE CREAGER - Dean of Girls
 JAMES DARLAND - Assistant Principal
 DALE SCHULER - Dean of Boys
 ERSKINE STANBERRY - Counselor

Mr. Darland sorts enrollment cards for next year.

Miss Mary Ellen Bridges offers advice to David Carter about college requirements.

Art students give Mrs. Ebert a surprise farewell party on her last day at Memorial.

Faculty

Students and Teachers Aim for Understanding

Miss Greene watches the festivities at Four Flags Over Memorial.

Mr. Eichling and Mr. Beller, the director of Earth Day at Memorial, observe the class trash heaps.

Sporting his red wagon, Mr. Wheeler exemplifies the spirit of Earth Week.

Students and teachers worked together and laughed together to attain a common goal – understanding. The teacher's job was not only to teach but to inspire. A true compassion for the uncertainty of youth was demanded of the educators. The students learned to regard their teachers as friends, not merely sources of knowledge. In an atmosphere conducive to education a mutual respect was formed. To achieve a comfortable unity was the aim of both students and teachers.

Mrs. Hamilton puts the finishing touches on a prop for the Fashion Show.

Mrs. Cox directs a meeting of the Principal's Advisory Council.

Literature Unlocks New Doors to Expression

Miss Fisher questions her class about English literature.

Mrs. Richardson watches with alarm as her homeroom decorates for the Christmas season.

Mrs. Flippo hands back an "A" paper.

Prose and poetry, grammar and composition were the major areas of study within the English department. The Scarlet Letter, Macbeth, and Hamlet held their traditional places in the classroom. Grammar and vocabulary exercises were designed to improve the students' writing and speaking abilities.

The English department demonstrated versatility through various publications. The department head, Mr. Paul Dykes, was also the Sentinel sponsor. A literary anthology, the Laureate, was compiled by students enrolled in Mrs. Bulloch's creative writing classes. Yearbook, supervised by Miss Mary Franklin, was another elective course offered to selected students.

Terry Wilborn and Gary Bass consult Mr. Dykes about a feature story for the Sentinel.

Mrs. Morgan checks her box for morning mail before going to her classroom.

Sciences Encourage Research and Technology

Mr. Barnard prepares an experiment for his first year chemistry class.

Advanced Algebra students receive instructions on complex numbers from Mr. James Reynolds.

Learning through experimentation was one of the key teaching methods used in the science department. Bunsen burners, microscopes, and test tubes were familiar instruments found in the classroom. Courses in chemistry, biology, physics, and physiology gave students an opportunity to gain knowledge of the modern technological world. Mr. David Barnard, chairman, supervised a staff of eleven instructors.

The math department, under the direction of Mr. James Reynolds, offered a wide selection of courses ranging from basic math to analytic geometry and calculus. Math, a science based on numbers and symbols, necessitated the use of reason and logic. Students were instructed in the use of theories, postulates, graphs, and equations in their study of mathematics.

Students studied the history of man's past in an effort to gain an understanding of the political, economic, and social aspects of life today. The range of study varied from the Neanderthal Man and ancient Greece to the "Great War" and current political campaigns. Teachers employed the use of films, maps, and tapes to enrich classroom discussions. Mrs. Pauline Holloway was chairman of the social studies department.

The foreign language department again carried on its tradition of interpretation and discovery. There were verb conjugations, endless vocabularies, recitations, and labs. Foreign literature contributed to the study of the language. The department, under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Smith, offered students a better understanding of the nations within our world.

In a reading circle Latin students receive special instruction from Mrs. Lucy Duckworth.

Mrs. Coker spends her planning period grading test papers.

Mr. Jim Brown talks to his students about German geography.

Miss Greene shows fatigue after a long day.

Fine Arts Courses Set Stage for Creativity

Students meet with Mr. Beck to lay plans for the school musical, Guys and Dolls.

The art department, supervised by Mr. Greer Farris, offered instruction in several areas. Sketching, painting, sculpting, and designing gave way to visual expressions of the students' imaginations. Teachers encouraged their students to use line, shape, and color effectively in class projects.

"By the Time I Get to Phoenix," "Aquarius," and "Going Out of My Head" were songs that highlighted the year for the vocal music department. Although present day music was sung for variety, chairman Mr. Bill Beck continued to use Ray Conniff music extensively. Studying theory and practicing tone were activities that occupied the class hours in all of the music courses.

A vast cultural heritage from men like Sophocles, Shakespeare, and Shaw offered students a chance to study the dramatic skills. The first year speech classes concentrated their studies on the delivery of demonstrative, extemporaneous, persuasive, and informative speeches. Debate was the major challenge in the second year course. Department chairman Mr. John Redman supervised the production of on-stage activities.

Mrs. Ebert enjoys filing metal to create original pieces of jewelry.

BILL BECK - Chorus, Mixed Chorus, Speech, Advanced Chorus, Department Chairman

JIM BENEDETTO - Marching Band, Music Theory, Band, Orchestra

JOHN REDMAN - Department Chairman, Speech

First year debaters discuss topics with Mrs. Newman.

Mr. Benedetto directs the orchestra in a rehearsal for the musical.

In preparation for the Easter season, Janell Patterson and Mrs. Johnson decorate the showcase.

The home economics department taught a variety of useful skills from slip-stitching and bread baking to home nursing and family budgeting. Girls were given the opportunity to learn how to make a home and a life for the future. The department was organized under the leadership of Mrs. Willie Belle Hamilton.

Practical training in vocational skills was offered in the industrial arts department. Projects, completed in the workshops, required the use of special tools such as T-squares, drills, welding units, and circuit breakers. A staff of four instructors, directed by Mr. Phillip Pallissard, supervised the students' work.

Office machines, typewriters, notebooks, and pencils supplied the student with the necessary means to obtain training in the business world. Instructors in the numerous business courses prepared students for achievement in American private enterprise. The department, led by Mrs. Josephine Holland, was designed to prepare students for earning their own livings.

Diversified Activities Aid Physical Fitness

Coach Lusk takes the arm of Kathy McDonald, his escort in the Mr. Pretty Legs Ceremony.

Mrs. Roberts demonstrates proper form in the use of the trampoline.

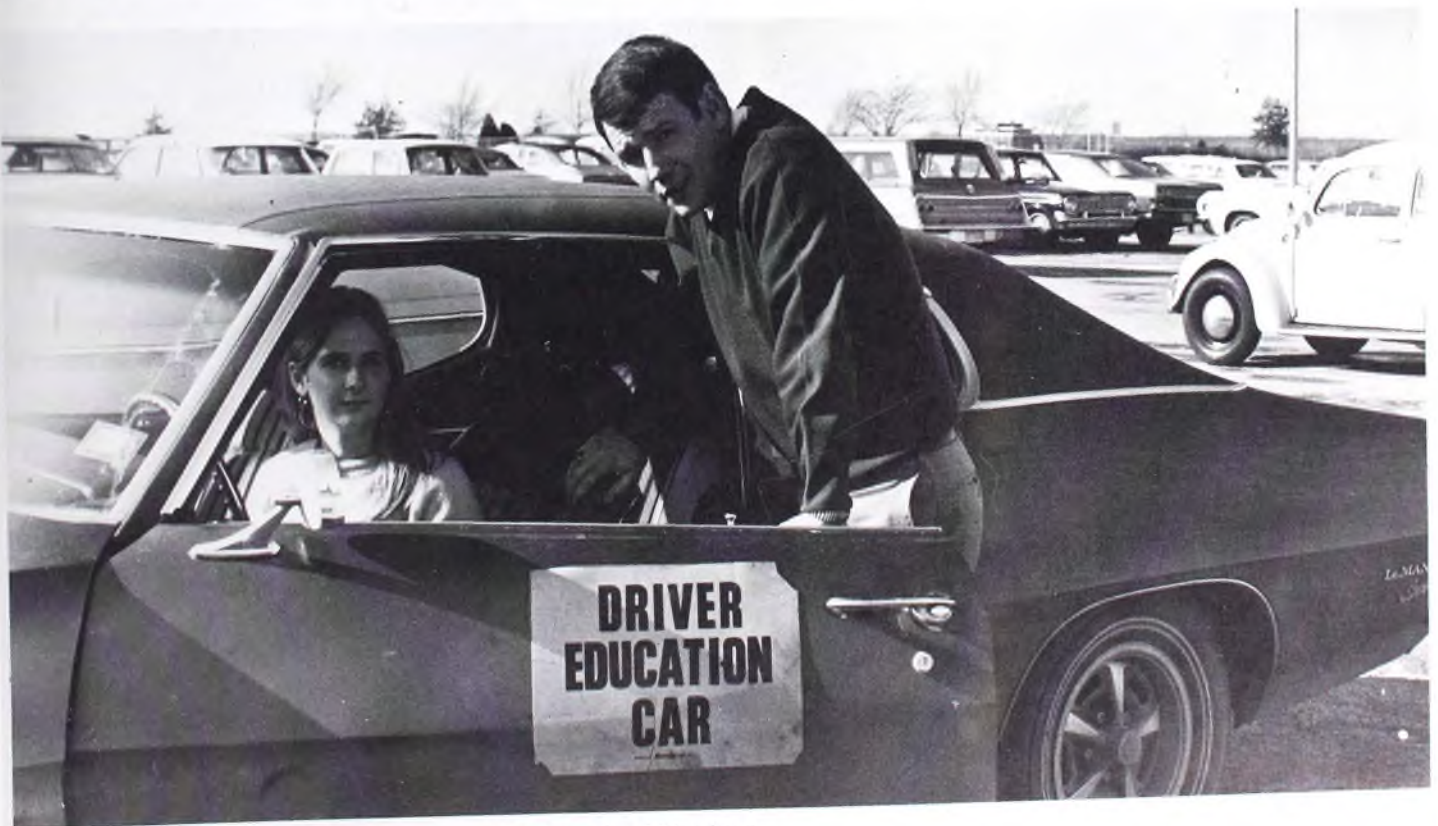

Coach Sanders applies a half-nelson to Randy Wheeler.

The girls' physical education department combined exercise with fun. Mrs. Emma Roberts, chairman, instructed the girls in modern dancing, gymnastic routines, and team sports. Surfs, a water ballet class under the leadership of Margaret McCaw, prepared an annual water show.

The boys' physical education program was under the supervision of Doug Dugger. Calisthenics and sports activities contributed to physical fitness and muscular coordination. Boys with special abilities in wrestling, swimming, football, basketball, and track furthered their interests by participating in the varsity program.

Librarians, secretaries, custodians, and the school nurse worked many hours to keep the school in order. The office staff counted absentees, prepared transcripts, and ran the school bank. Custodians were responsible for keeping the building both clean and comfortable. Although the staff worked behind the scenes, their jobs were important ones. They helped to keep the school an organized place of business.

A student stops by the bookstore to chat with Mrs. Stephensen.

Mrs. Neely pauses while typing semester schedule changes.

SENIORS AT LAST! The cry went up in September with anticipation and confidence. The Class of '70 witnessed its final year as an end and a beginning.

It was the end of the high school curriculum which they had outgrown. It was the end of countless friendships surviving only as memories. It was the end of the long string of activities which unified and strengthened the class: the Victory Mixer, intramurals, Pygmalion, Sadie Hawkins, the Farewell Assembly. The high school experience ended with combined feelings of relief and sentiment.

The moment so long awaited finally arrived. Graduation culminated the final year. The times at Memorial seemed a mere preparation for what lay ahead. The end of high school was a beginning. It was the beginning of the search for a place in the world.

Juniors Exhibit Promise

Mr. Brown lends his voice in support of Junior activities.

JUNIOR CLASS FAVORITES - Anita Wyrick and Kim Stogner

"The good guys wear white hats" conveys the proud feeling of becoming a Junior at Memorial. With its officers already installed, the Class of '71 initiated a year of projects and activity early in September.

Junior success in all-school events came quickly as Junior homerooms won Edison Week contests. The Juniors sponsored their first dance on October 17, with a Halloween theme. This year, for the first time, the Junior and Sophomore classes combined to present a play, Meet Me In St. Louis. The Valentine Dance in February and the Pickle Sale in April were the final class activities for 1970.

Looking beyond to their senior year, the students had the opportunity to take various college and scholarship tests. By the end of the year, Juniors wore their senior rings and looked forward to their third and final year at Memorial.

Memorial Greet's Sophs

A Sophomore shows his concern for Earth Week by adding to the growing pile of trash.

Mrs. Crafts, sponsor, lends leadership to the Sophomore Class.

SOPHOMORE CLASS FAVORITES: Joy Rubottom and Rick Beilke

The Class of '72 entered Memorial with a spark of anxiety and undaunted spirit. After the election of their class officers they began a challenging year of high hopes.

They quickly showed their interest by sponsoring the first school mixer after the victorious Edison game. A successful bake sale soon followed. This year the Sophomore and Junior Classes combined efforts and presented a play Meet Me in St. Louis. Among other accomplishments they surpassed their upperclassmen by placing first in the candy sale. Many of the sophomore homerooms made contributions to the school and community. In December a class gave a party for the Children's Medical Center, and in March three homerooms filled Easter baskets for the Red Cross.

As the year drew to a close the Class of '72 looked toward its future years at Memorial with anticipation of new and challenging goals.

Miss Memorial 1953

What is my feeling as being Miss Memorial? It is truly a feeling of being in a dream. I am sure that at one time or another, every little girl dreams of someday becoming a queen. Just like every other girl I dreamed of this, too, but I never really believed that it could come true.

On November 7, at 10:15, the seniors were asked to go into Mr. Bays's office and he told us who was Miss Memorial VII. At that moment I fell into a dream. My parents didn't know the results until they heard it announced in the pep assembly. When I saw the happiness expressed on their faces, my heart suddenly began to beat faster, and I fell deeper into my dream.

Before I knew it, the day of the coronation had arrived. That night, at the football game and dance, my dream seemed to be going fast, even though I tried not to think about its coming to an end.

Now, as I look back on my precious memories, I have an inexpressible feeling of love and gratitude for you - Memorial Chargers. I still cannot conceive of my being Miss Memorial.

Soccer style kicker Bill Larrabee

Athletes desired success and fans applauded victory. The numbers on the scoreboard inadequately described the gains available through the gridiron sport. As the football players vacated the stadium, perhaps they had acquired an enthusiasm for contest and a spirit of self-confidence.

An enthusiastic team overpowered the Washington Hornets in the All-City Tournament and acknowledged pleas of "upset" from elated Charger devotees. Pre-season excitement receded with the conference debut as Bartlesville Sooner found a defective Charger offense and marched to unexpected victory. Edison and McLain suffered defeat prior to East Central's annual disappointment. In a climatic conflict with Hale, six seconds haunted Memorial dominance, and the Rangers ruined Charger hopes. Recovering wins over Central and Sapulpa announced the highly anticipated Washington contest in which the Hornets avenged their All-City disgrace. Successive wins over Webster and Rogers completed the season and assured the Chargers of second place in Conference.

Defense Halts Opponents' Drives

Defensemen Rick Gambrell (80) and Steve Massey (50) arrest a loose ball in the Webster game.

Consistent effort results in injury for defender Greg Jones.

Danny Paul (78), David McCluggage (64), and Dan Goodwin (82) block for ball carrier Craig Shapard (21).

Assisted by Steve Pentose (61), Steve Jenkinson (23) gains valuable yardage.

The hands of Jerry Dugger (43) attract a spiraling pass.

Offense Strives for Gains Against Opponents

Quarterback Don Hardcastle (10) searches for an isolated receiver.

Tony Sutton (32) enables David Rosenthal (22) to minimize the distance from the goal line.

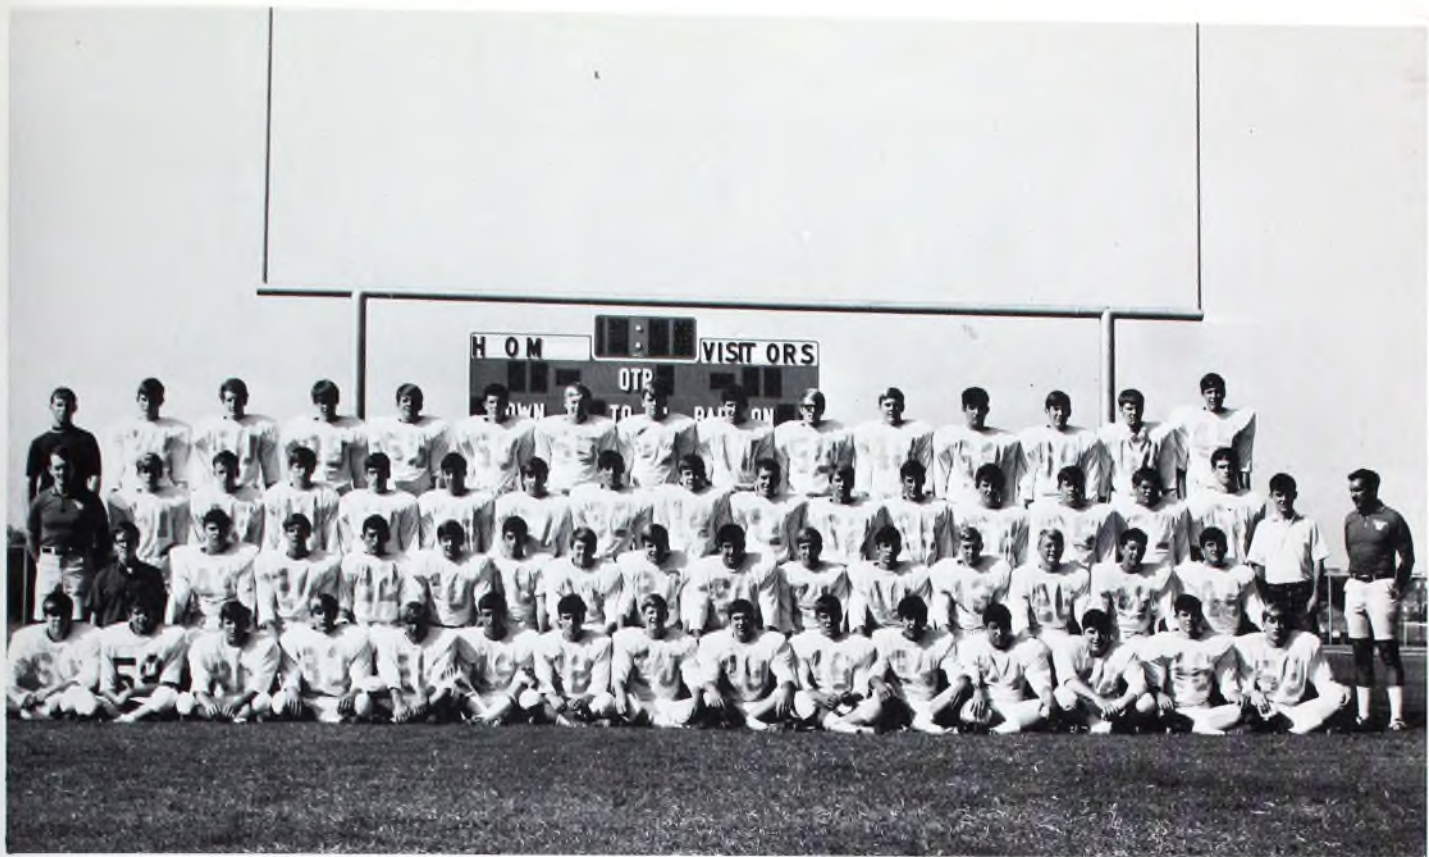

Coach Risenhoover gives his offensive line encouragement and advice.

Gridsters Represent Elevated Pride of Fans

A stadium scattered with obsolete spirit ribbons and streamers echoes memories of a year to be relived. Endless hours of unnoticed perfecting are forgotten. Wins and losses become interwoven – then disappear. Efforts remain and settle in memory. The football player represents the elevated pride of a throng of devoted followers. Perhaps this responsibility has created his pride.

Competition stiffens as Woody McLain (274) nears the finish at the State Meet.

Perseverance and determination decided rewards. Coach MacKenna's Cross Country team showed these qualities in repeated victories over strong competitors. Actual performances displayed the results of hours of practice in pursuit of excellence. The daily routine, consisting of miles of jogging, led to the achievement of awards. Second place state and first place conference championship trophies awaited harriers at the season's finish line.

Jackie Higgins trims a Valentine tree in preparation for the Teacher Appreciation Day Breakfast.

The Student Council incorporated candy sales, dances, and student courts during the 1969-70 year in an effort to balance budgets, increase social events, and improve student relationships. The fund raising project was the sale of chocolate bars and Pollydoodles. Student Council sponsored the Howdy Mixer, the Coronation Dance, the Christmas Dance, and initiated an all-school stag dance in the spring. The Council also introduced the Student Courts, which were a new means of judging offenses such as shoplifting and speeding. Students acted as jurors.

Memorial's student government supervised the elections of Miss Memorial, senior superlatives, and boys and girls of the months. It also supported Wenche Moe, the A.F.S. student, and organized the Teacher Appreciation Day Breakfast. Student Council's representatives proved to be a means of communication between students. They endeavored not only to propose but to activate programs in the school.

A.F.S. Increases International Understanding

Left to right FIRST ROW: Elizabeth Boucher, Jackie Higgins, Marilyn Walker, Terri Black – Treasurer, Julie Wise, Melinda Moore, Elizabeth Phillips, Christine Wing, Debbie Garrett, Cheryl Thomas, Kathy Kemm, Wenche Moe, Sally Hatfield, Connie McDougal. SECOND ROW: Anna Gavelik, Marjan Sprangers, Linda Buzzalini, Susan Danne, Gretchen Oakes, Kathy Larrabee, Pam Messenger, Gail Spies, Sheila McKinney, Carole Parrish, Donna Pauliny, Susan Watson, Janie Higdon, Shelly LaFortune, Lynn Roberts – Vice-President, Mrs. Betty Geppelt – Sponsor. THIRD ROW: Chris Brunger, Regina Hendel, Rick Lawrance, David Lawrance, Bob Bailey, Cathi Furlong – Secretary.

A.F.S. sought to promote understanding between American and foreign students. Members sponsored an assembly in which Tulsa's A.F.S. students were introduced. The students compared native and American customs in a panel discussion. Later they toured the school and attended a luncheon. In January Memorial sent Linda Buzzalini to Brazil for a year in the Americans Abroad program.

Memorial's A.F.S. student was Wenche Moe of Norway. She was on the Laureate staff and participated in International Club and Pep Club. Wenche was also an honorary member of Gamma Sigma. During her year with the James Kemm family Wenche hoped to learn more about America and her customs.

Wenche assumes responsibilities in her American home.

Wenche expresses thanks upon receiving her Senior Class ring.

Wenche admires a mobile made by a classmate.

Wenche and her American sister, Kathy Kemm, review some old favorites.

Writing Classes Offer Variety of Literature

The Sentinel, sponsored by Mr. Paul Dykes, provided Memorial students a look at school activities. While learning the techniques of journalistic writing and the methods of organizing a paper, the Sentinel staff also contributed news and "Banner Lines" to the weekly all-city paper, School Life. The University of Tulsa Press Day offered journalists the chance to compete in various contests.

This year's Laureate, sponsored by Mrs. Mary Lou Bulloch, had a new flavor; its theme was "Corned Beef and Cabbage." Although the Laureate was compiled by members of the Creative Writing classes, other students were invited to contribute material. A sales forum, the "Laureate Restaurant," stressed the staff's hope to make the Laureate a tasty addition to the school year.

Other Laureate members were Betsy Anderson, Leanne Atherton, Susan Bartlett, Gary Bass, Bob Blair, Peggy Bott, Liz Boucher, Debbie Byrum, Donna Campbell, David Carter, Charlie Cox, Barbara Crichton, Pam Dillard, Sally Fowlkes, Kathy Furlong, Terry Furlow, Deedie Goen, Susie Gray, Regina Hendel, Ken Herschel, Janie Higdon, Jim Holt, Dale Jeffus, Gary Jones, Judy Jones, Karen Johnson, Sue Kenslow, Charlie King, Mark Klimowicz, Harold Knight, Greg Kohlbacher, Susan Leggett, Jay McCaslin, Connie McDougal, Wenche Moe, Linda Montgomery, Jon Neff, Mac Nelson, Kathy Owen, Rick Palazzo, Denise Partain, David Patterson, Jane Puryear, Thom Raybourn, Vicky Ricks, Dave Roberts, Rinda Rubottom, Jan Russell, Renee Sartain, Jack Smith, David Tappan, Gene Wade, Terry Wilborn, Cheryl Wilcox, Lynn Wiley, Robert Word.

THIRD ROW: David Hagaman – Sports and Photographer, Laurie DeLacy – Sports, Elizabeth Boucher – Organizations, Lynn Wiley – Student Life, Diane Berry – Sophomore Class.

Jean Howe and David Hagaman print pictures in the darkroom.

"As the Yearbook Turns" provides Laurie, Debbie, and Ken an opportunity to use their acting and selling abilities.

Sponsor Mary Franklin and editors Cheryl Wilcox and Terry Furlow combine efforts to write a caption.

Taps VIII occupied the minds, hearts, and Saturdays of the yearbook staff and its sponsor, Miss Mary Franklin. The yearbook staff, using the theme "As the Yearbook Turns," began the year with a promotional assembly. It featured burritos, cuckoo-birds, and plenty of ham. During the year the staff became acquainted with deadlines and triplicates and discovered the complexities of constructing a yearbook. Taps VIII featured a more informal, yet more comprehensive, approach to the school year.

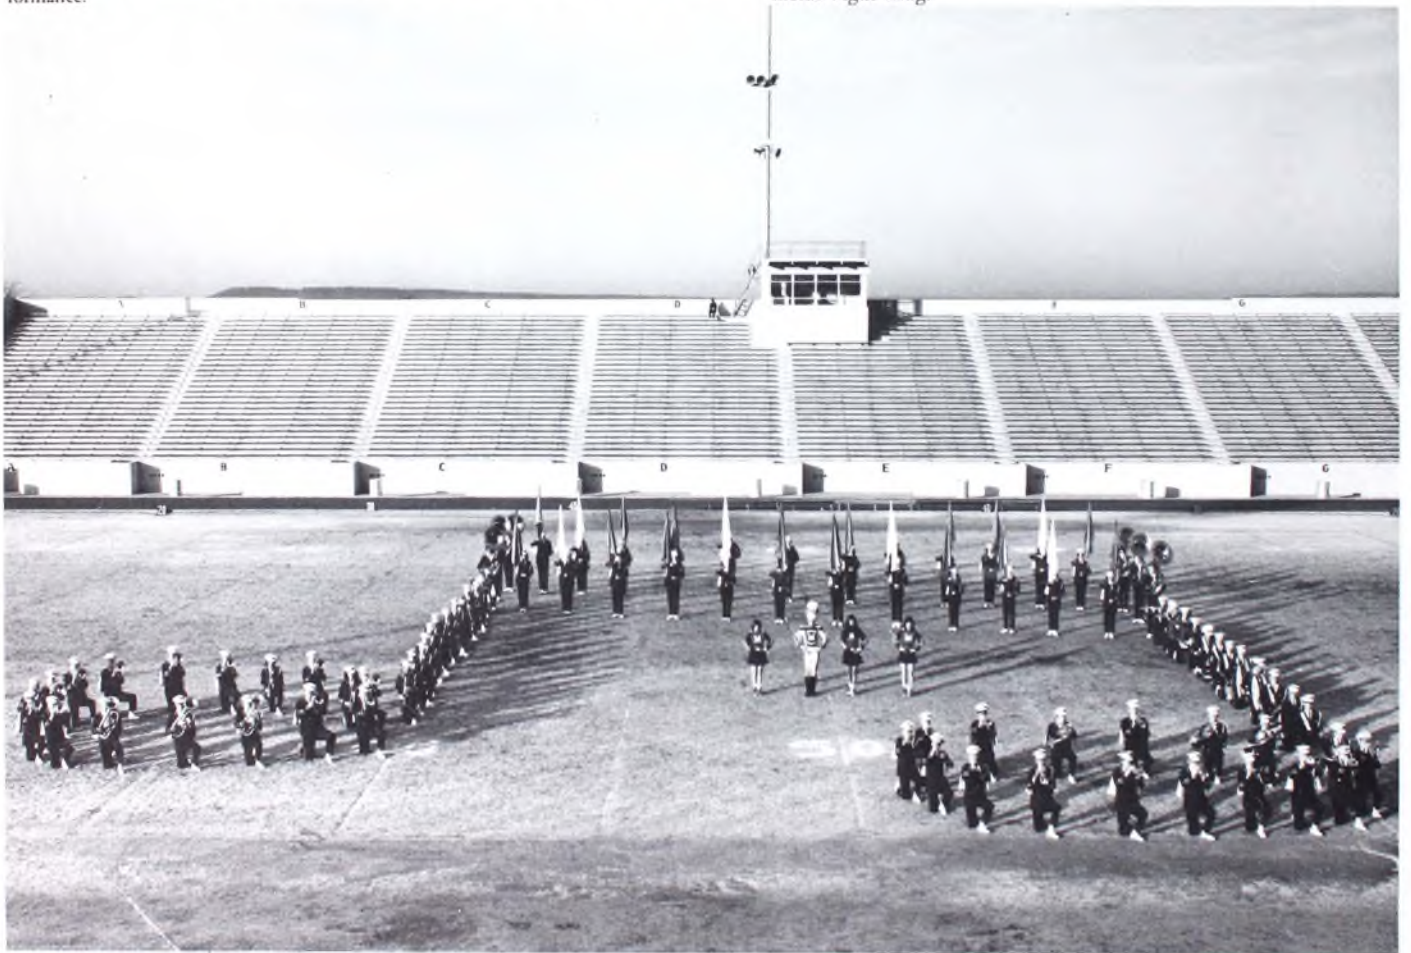

Meetings during the summer provided the staff a chance to discuss and change traditional ideas. Taps VIII members viewed the year in three parts as a three-act play. Students were the actors; Memorial was the stage; life was the plot. Taps VIII endeavored to reach out and capture fragments of the year — pebbles in the path of "the search."

Steve Johnson concentrates on the musical score as he marches during a half time performance.

A shrill whistle blew. Frozen fingers clutched cold instruments. A familiar tune broke the early morning silence. Under the direction of Mr. James Benedetto, the marching band practiced mornings before school in preparation for football half times and parade competition. Polished parade performances reflected the band’s effort and practice, and won it state and local honors.

Chargerettes sparked football half times with performances on the field. Sponsored by Miss Carolyn Maynard, Memorial’s all-girl drill team also provided entertainment at basketball games and wrestling matches. The Chargerettes offered spirited support to the marching band in the Fair and Christmas parades.

Marching with the band at football games and parades, Memorial’s three majorettes featured blue sequined costumes and flashing batons. Their skill enhanced the band’s half time performances and won them a superior rating at the state contest in Pryor.

This year Memorial's Pep Club featured new uniforms, composed new rules, and increased membership. The change of uniform proved to be welcome and aided in the growth of spirit and pride. The new rules, based on a demerit system, demanded unprecedented discipline and resulted in greater participation. Increased attendance at football games displayed the Pep Club's membership of over five hundred.

Football season brought pep rallies. The Pep Club officers continued tradition by selling spirit ribbons, presenting cakes to hungry athletes, and decorating locker rooms. The door and car decorating contests for Hex the Eagles Week prompted the Chargers to success. The McLain Poster Contest and the Washington Silence Day boosted fall spirit. A rambunctious boys' squad also lent its support to the Charger teams.

Loyalty Night ushered in winter sports. The Pep Club later showed a film featuring the swimming, wrestling, and basketball teams in action. A highlight of the year was the Mr. Pretty Legs Contest in February.

As the year neared its close, elections for new officers took place. The 1969-70 Pep Club, however, left behind many improvements. A year of success remained as an example for future pep clubs.

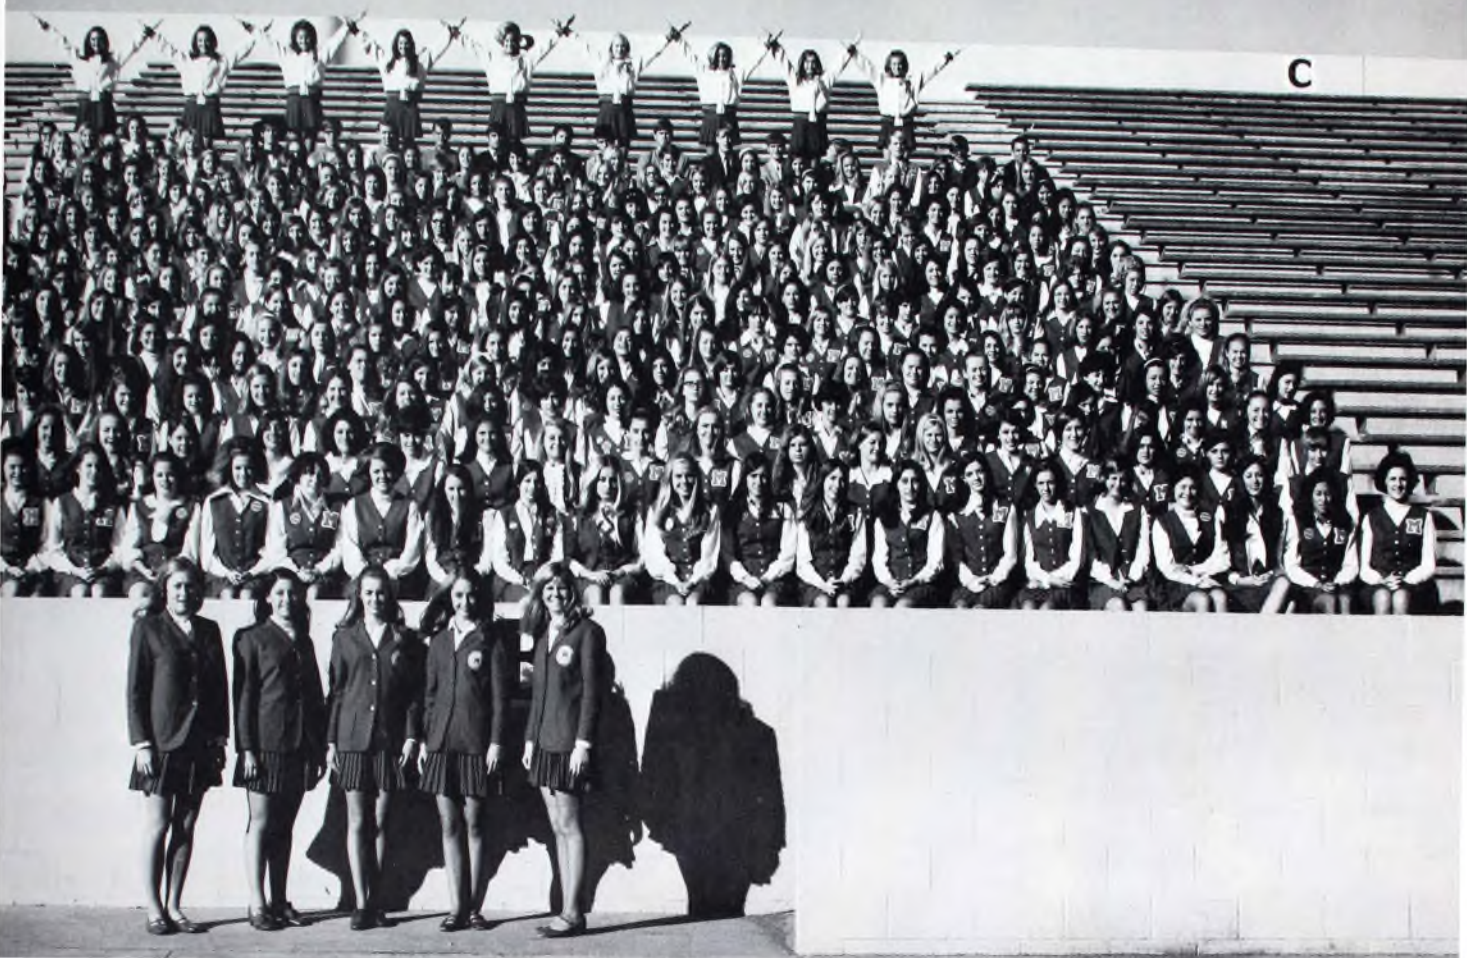

Spirit mounts as the cheerleaders build the traditional pyramid.

Coach Dugger shouts corrective advice to his team.

Frustrations plagued Coach Dugger's basketball team. The towering scores of opposing teams made defeats inevitable, but these frequent discouragements were overshadowed by the will to persevere.

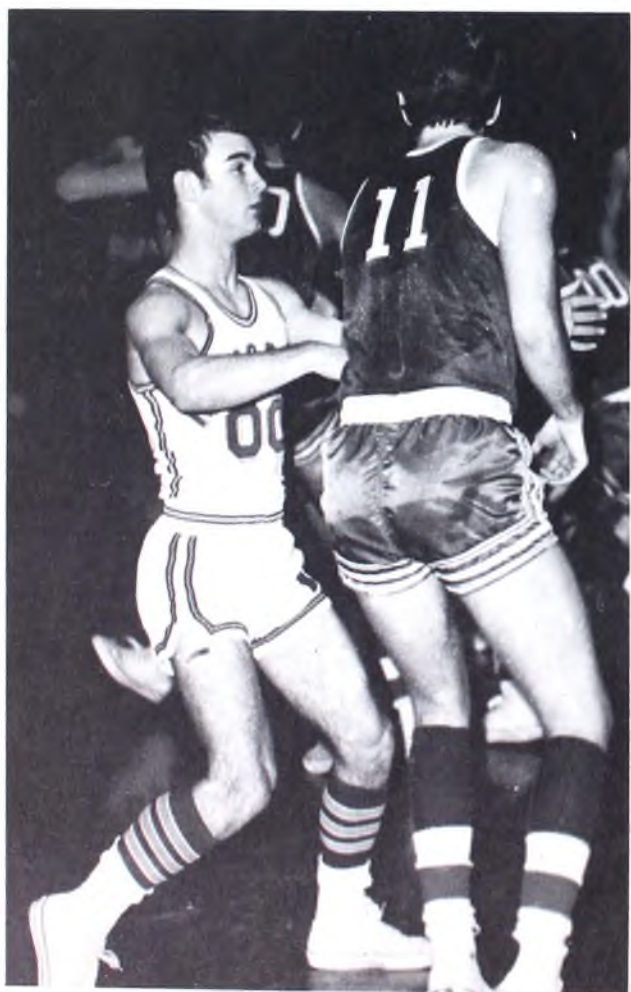

Defeats were not constant. Scattered moments of victory improved the season record. These occasional victories revealed the hidden talents of the players. A decisive win over McLain hoisted team spirit. Sapulpa, Bartlesville Sooner, and Rogers were also defeated by Memorial's superior scores. At the close of the season, roundballers were recognized for accomplishments in tournament competition. Although losses were dominant, the squad exhibited determination and sportsmanship throughout a difficult season.

B-Team Tournament 1st

Coach Ed Lusk carefully blended competent individuals and saw a harmonious team emerge. His swimmers displayed the talent and finesse indicative of deserving champions.

Loyal spectators cheered gliding swimmers to numerous victories. Charger mermen dominated nine meets during the season. Their single loss to Bartlesville College offered the only blemish in dual meet competition. Swimmers ignored predictions and edged past Bartlesville Sooner. Celebrations after this upset were filled with shouts of "We're number one," as eager eyes looked toward a looming City trophy. The City crown symbolized excellence. Satisfied swimmers clutched this prize, the token of their efforts. Hope and determination sculpted the realization of this award. Through long, late hours of desire, they earned the City championship. The State meet brought disappointment. Swimmers accomplished only a fragment of their hopes; they were declared third in state competition.

Meetings, on Tuesday mornings and on various evenings, enabled students to hear about and discuss local, national, and international problems. Discussion topics included public and fair housing and a charter for city government. Combining forces with A.F.S., the International Club also sponsored an introductory breakfast for Memorial's foreign students.

Gliding gracefully over the parallel bars, the gymnast went from a hip circle into a perfect eagle. This was just part of each Tuesday's practice as members of the Gymnastics Club worked to perfect routines on the balance beam, the trampoline, the parallel bars, and the tumbling mats. The Memorial gymnasts also practiced free floor exercise, a combination of ballet and tumbling. During the year the Gymnastics Club participated in an exchange program with other schools, which aided them in learning the value of competition and sportsmanship.

This year an art service class, Art Activities, was added to Memorial's curriculum. Its students, in jeans and sweatshirts, were a familiar sight on the auditorium stage as school productions neared. Sponsored by Mrs. Nota Johnson, Art Activities also designed posters for various promotional drives and illustrated copy for the Laureate.

Memorial's Art Club did not sport the traditional berets and smocks or French accents. It did, however, seek to create interest in the field of art. Sponsored by Mr. Greer Farris, the Art Club offered art students a chance to compare ideas and to discuss art concepts.

A series of one-act plays characterized Masque and Gavel's thespian endeavors. Masque and Gavel and its sponsor, Mr. John Redman, considered significant achievement in speech as the club's objective. At a banquet in May deserving students received awards for various performances and production contributions.

Mu Alpha Theta, Memorial's Math Club, did not endeavor to build the school's first computer or to determine infinity. It did, however, establish a math tutoring program. The club and its sponsor, Mrs. Marilyn Brinkman, also made an excursion to the Pan American Petroleum Lab.

This year the Science Club replaced the Medical Club. Sponsored by Mr. Levi Willhoite, the club sought to encompass realms of sciences other than biology and medicine. They scheduled various field trips and hosted speakers from the fields of industry and medicine.

Red Cross, composed of homeroom representatives, aided various community, national, and international programs. In October the organization staged a talent show at the Muskogee Veteran's Hospital, and in November they launched the traditional enrollment drive. Red Cross, sponsored by Miss Karen Fisher, also collected money to buy toys and athletic equipment for Vietnamese children.

Loyalty Night

December 12, marked the fourth annual Loyalty Night, an event unique to Memorial and her tradition. Excitement was in the air. Anticipation mounted as contest posters decorated the halls.

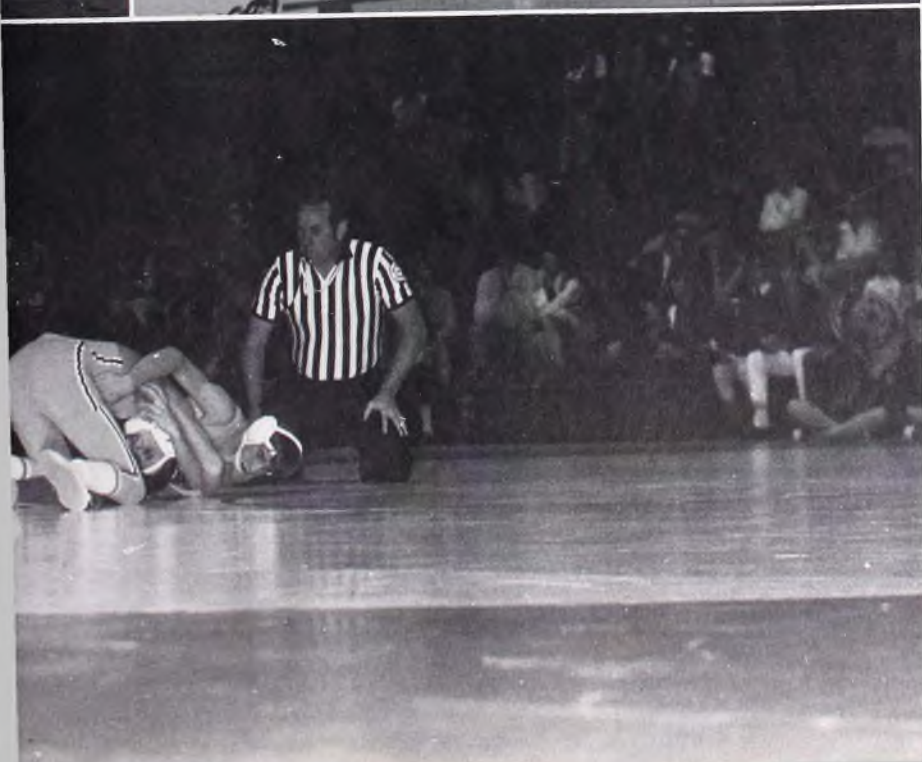

The P.T.A. converted the menu from chili to hamburgers, and filled tables with baked goods. Spectators ate their meals before cramming the bleachers in the pool area. Fans were not disappointed as Memorial dunked Bartlesville College, handing the Wildcats their first defeat in eight years.

The crowd moved to the gym where they watched Charger grapplers defeat Rogers. The basketball team was defeated 66 to 60 by East Central, giving Memorial her only loss that night.

The proceeds from ticket sales went to the Athletic Department for equipment. This money, plus the two Charger victories, made Loyalty Night both a financial and an athletic success.

Juniors sound their loyalty as cheerleader Gayla Soderstrom leads them in Battlecry.

Spirit Reflects Yuletide Season

Ellen Ryser reflects the joy of Christmas as she adds the finishing touches to a tree.

The thrill of a stolen base, the risk of a distant slide, and the excitement of a homerun constitute the game of baseball. The strenuous time spent in perfecting the diamond skills paid off for Coach Eddy's hardballers.

Wins and losses balanced their regular season games. The Regionals produced the unexpected excitement of the season. The Memorial baseball team surprised fans with three consecutive upsets which propelled Chargers to State competition. In the semifinals a determined pitching effort and a clinching homerun assured Memorial of a victory over favored Midwest City. Although the championship game proved disappointing as the East Central Cardinals edged past Memorial 3-2, the Chargers still emerged with the 2nd place State title.

During the winter the Concert Chorus presented the Christmas assembly and programs at Byrd and Nimitz Junior High Schools. The Concert Chorus also entertained at a Ladies' Garden Club luncheon. The major activity of the year was participation in the school musical, Guys and Dolls.

The Mixed Chorus served as preparation for the Concert Chorus. Members sang with the Concert Chorus in the Thanksgiving Assembly. Other activities included the Fall and Spring Concerts and the school musical.

The Girls' Glee Club was composed of two music classes. The Glee Club prepared the girls for the Concert Chorus. Featuring red and blue outfits, Girls' Glee Club sang at the Fall and Spring Concerts.

Orchestra, Concert Band Win Top State Awards

The Concert Band, selected from the best players of the Advanced and Reserved Bands, was under the direction of Mr. James Benedetto. At the district contest the Concert Band received a superior rating, and at the state contest it received an excellent rating. The band's activities included performing at the Spring Concert.

The Orchestra was also directed by Mr. Benedetto. It started the year by playing at the Coronation Assembly for Miss Memorial VII. The Orchestra also participated in the March PTA meeting, the Spring Concert, and the school musical, Guys and Dolls. At the district and state contests the Orchestra won superior ratings.

The Orchestra's and Concert Band's members also received awards. Individuals and ensembles from both groups competed at the district and state contests. Twenty-four soloists and eleven ensembles won superior ratings, thus adding a successful note to the year.

Red, white, and blue jackets were worn by members of the Lettermen's Club to signify their accomplishments in various sports. Sponsored by Coach Doug Dugger, the Lettermen's Club sought to promote good sportsmanship. Activities included handing out programs at athletic contests and distributing sports events schedule cards.

The cheerleaders, sponsored by Mrs. Judy Lingenfelter, sparked spirit at all athletic events. Summer and after-school practices instilled discipline and precision in the cheerleaders and prepared them for competition at the state contests. Their efforts were rewarded by ratings of first at the summer clinic and second at the November 1 competition. The cheerleaders boosted morale by decorating the athletes' yards with spirit posters. The girls also maintained membership in the Lettermen's Club. During the year the cheerleaders' enthusiasm and hard work contributed to Memorial's sports and spirit.

The cheerleaders anticipate the outcome of a play in the Memorial-Hale game.

Damp hair, tired arms, and red eyes appealed to a specially selected group of Memorial girls. Surfs, the girls' synchronized swim team, consisted of juniors and seniors who met each day during fifth hour. The class, sponsored by Mrs. Peggy McCaw, sought to advance its coordination, skill, and enjoyment in synchronized swimming. Surfs' efforts and practices culminated in their annual water show, this year entitled Heat Waves.

Epsilon Delta, the girls' homemaking organization, sought to prepare members for future community involvement. Sponsored by Miss Carolyn Maynard, the club hosted a model from a local agency and visited the children's ward at St. Francis Hospital. The highlight of the year was the presentation of pins to the members.

Epsilon Delta President Linda Magers models during the Sew-Lar Seventy style show.

During a Surfs practice Vikcye Jurries demonstrates a double ballet leg.

Randy Walker and Suzie Sherrill perform a segment of their act, "Fire of Love."

“Old Friends” Gather for Dinner and Dance

Memorial Senior High School's Class of '70 faced an end to a chapter in their lives. The coveted diploma represented the goal of thirteen years. There were times of joy, victory, defeat and disappointment. But the ultimate success brought with it reminiscence, sad farewells . . . graduation.

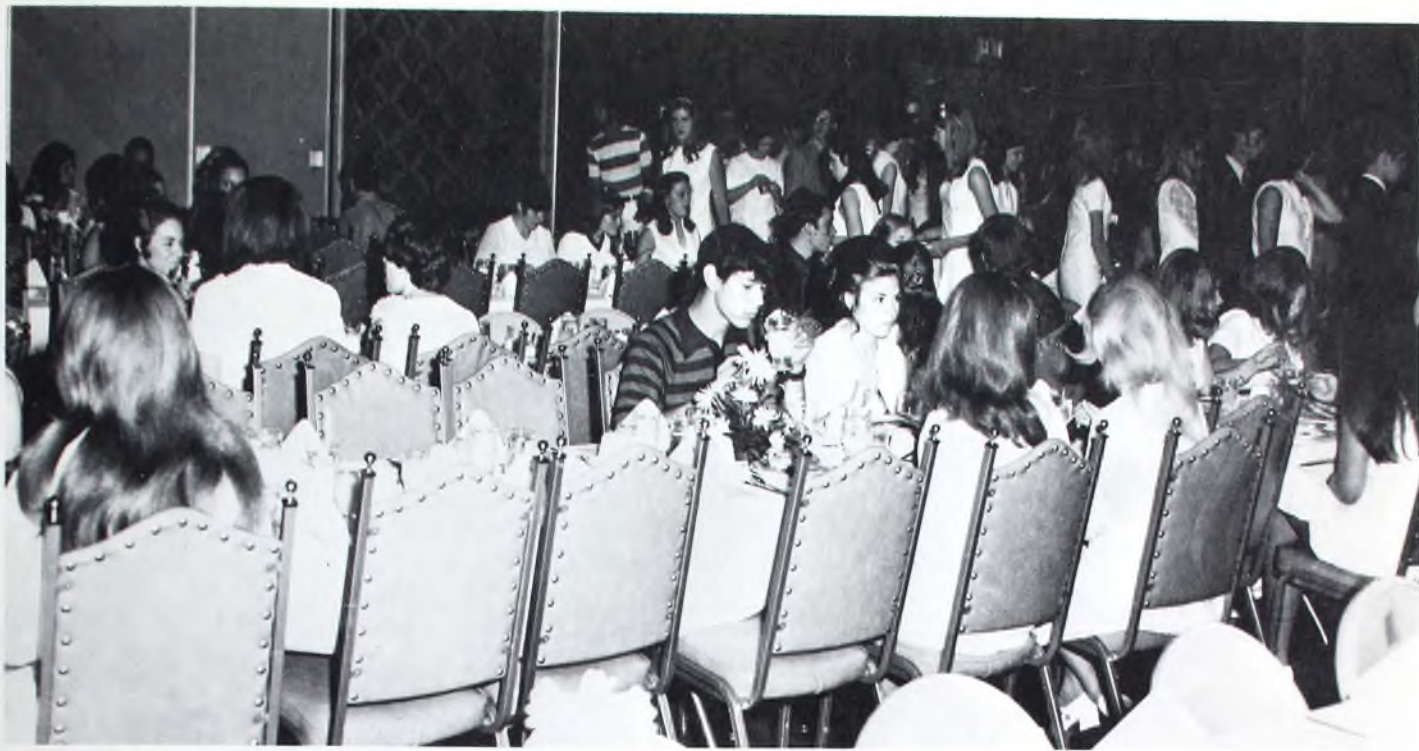

At the Vesper Service on May 17, Reverend Neff asked that graduates fill their lives with giving and sharing. Dr. J. Herbert Holloman spoke to an assembly of seniors and their families at the Commencement Exercises on May 22. The Mayo Hotel's Crystal Ballroom provided the setting for the Senior Dinner on May 23. Seniors hurried back at nine o'clock to dance to the sounds of Tulsa County at the Senior Prom. On May 26, graduates met at the Hilton Inn for the Breakfast. The Farewell Assembly climaxed senior activities, marking the end of high school years. Seven hundred twenty excited graduates filed into the auditorium, but they left a bit more serious, realizing they were now a part of Memorial's history and tradition.

Rick Palazzo and Amy Sebran provide the accompaniment for "Hey Jude" during the Farewell Assembly.

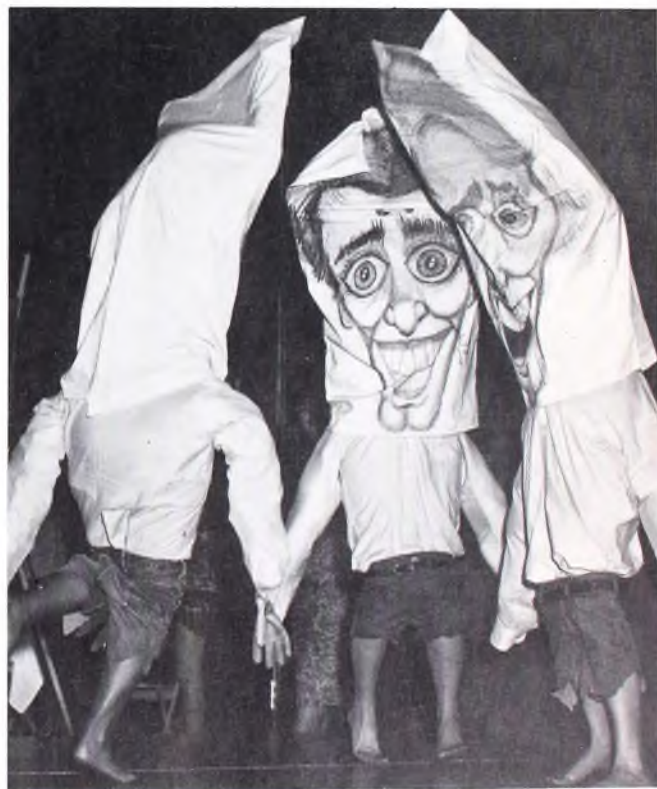

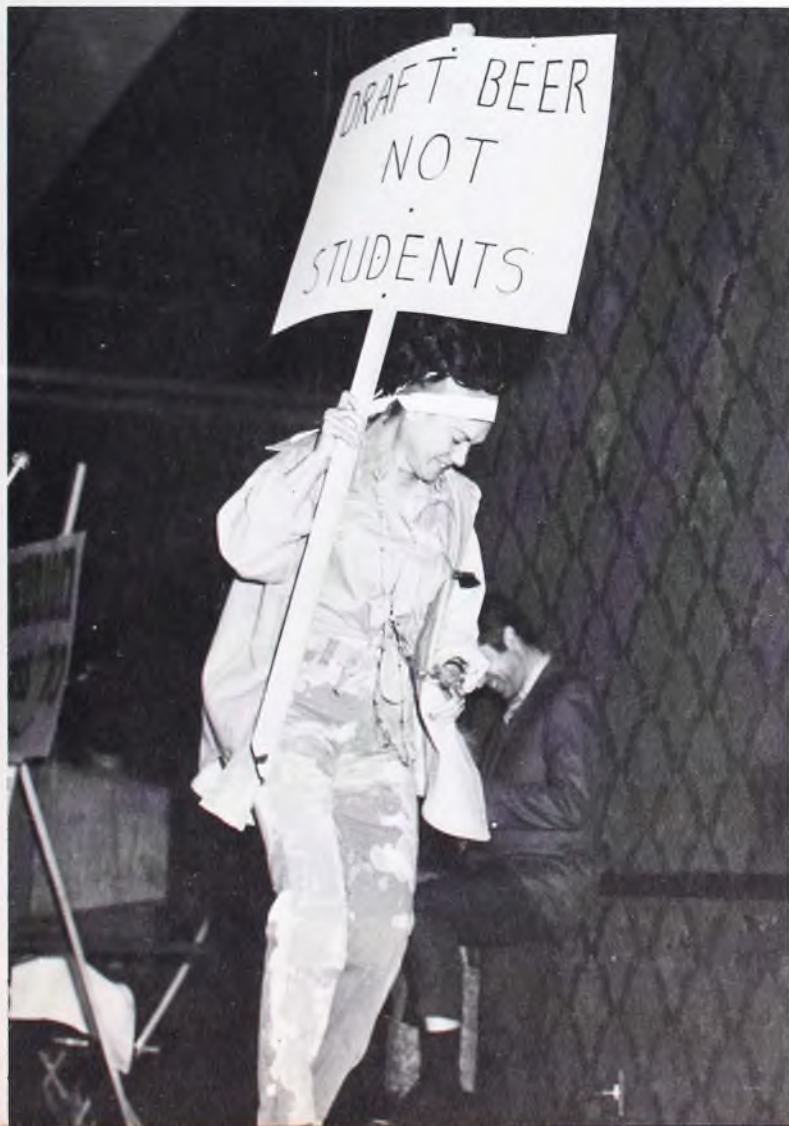

Seniors become part of the assembly as "Hey Jude" reaches the soul of all present.

Seniors congregate at the Hilton Inn for the traditional breakfast and entertainment.

Breakfast, Assembly Provide Last Gatherings

Antics of homeroom teachers enliven the Senior Breakfast.

Acknowledgments

We wish to thank the following people for their aid in the publication of Taps VIII:

MISS MARY FRANKLIN – who was more than a sponsor to the staff and who devoted many voluntary hours after school.
CORNELIUS PHOTOGRAPHY – who provided the color transparencies used on the division pages and the endsheets, and several of the opening section pictures. They also contributed the queen attendants' pictures and many of the sports and organizations photographs.

MRS. LU CARROLL – who, as our representative from Taylor Publishing Company, contributed the artwork for the cover.

MR. BOB McCORMACK – who donated the photograph of Miss Memorial VII.

MRS. HAZEL STEPHENSON – who was patient and cooperative during Taps VIII sales and the summer mailing of yearbooks.

ANITA BERARD – whose efficiency as Senior Class Editor was the envy of the staff.

DIANE BERRY – who, as Sophomore Class Editor, was the only senior at the Sophomore Board meetings.

GRANT BILLINGSLEY – who, as Junior Class Editor, was always a day late and a dollar short, but he never got burned.

LIZ BOUCHER – who deserted copy-editing and used her pint-sized power to rescue the Organizations section.

VICKI BOWLIN – who, as Faculty Editor, failed to appreciate Mr. Bays's cast.

MARK CAIN – who lit up the darkroom with his snowy presence.

LAURIE DeLACY – who really enjoyed all the time she spent in sixth hour gym as Sports Editor.

DEBBIE GARRISON – who completed the Elite section only with the aid of her Evil Chips.

DAVID HAGAMAN – who was unanimously voted Mr. Super Yearbook for his work as Sports Editor and Head Photographer.

JEAN HOWE – who fulfilled her numerous duties as Darkroom Queen.

JAN JOHNSON – who took a million aspirin before completing the Organizations section.

LYNN WILEY – whose promptness in meeting the Student Life deadlines was much appreciated by the editors.
